Y
to emerge. Among these researchers was Gary Richter who studied threats to US security in a post-Cold War world were likely ended with the 9/11 attacks. Sandia also helped outside the war zone. Bruce Biringer (6139), who was a Sandia emergency planner, Troy Hamby (4384), Lloyd Ballantin (3153), Mike Holmboe (3154), and Gerald Woldman (1232) went on the New Mexico Urban Search and Rescue Deployment Team to help recovery efforts. Working 15-16 days, they chopped up damaged parts of the five-hour search, surviving the aftershock and successfully
At 7:30 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 14, Roger and his team were taken to a high-security area of the FAA building and "I had this feeling of helplessness," he says. "I'm my own mother could do. I dedicated most of my life to
"I think it forever changed the way we looked at physical security," Roger says. "It's a new level of security. It's a new level of security that we need to have now."