What Manufacturing Department 10252 procures:

- Mechanical and Electrical fabricated parts to Sandia design specifications. This list includes but is not limited to :
 - Quality machined parts and sheetmetal components.
 - Components of defense systems.
 - Components built to Sandia Specification 9900000 and Military Specifications.
 - Printed circuit boards: From design to finished fabricated assemblies.
 - Prototype models built from any type or combination of materials (e.g. plastics, metal wood, etc.) as required by the project parameters.

How MFG. 10252 Solicits and Awards Contracts

- The Sandia Contracting Representative (SCR) generates a new source list for each solicitation based on input from Supplier Relations, the SNL Technical Line Organizations, the Technical Fabrication Coordinators (TFCs) and the SCR's own knowledge of the supplier base and their capabilities.
- Sandia's supplier source database is comprised of both historically long term suppliers and new suppliers.
- The award of these solicitations is based on the SCR's judgement and review. The award usually is based on most responsiveness, lowest competitive total price, and capability to meet specified delivery requirements.

Manufacturing's purchasing cycle:

- Fabricated parts are required throughout the fiscal year.
- Unique and diverse Sandia project requirements drive the fabricated and build to print items.
- The type of fabrication requests are as varied as the Supplier Source base Sandia utilizes.
